New york eyewitness travel guides pdf

No matter where you come from, New York City is probably quite high on your list of places to visit. And no matter that season, it is always magical to experience things. If you're planning a trip to NYC, you can definitely hope to have a great time. There is never a dull or quiet moment – which is why New York is known as a city that never sleeps! But all the things NYC has to offer, who would ever have wanted to? There is a reason why New York City is one of the most popular tourist cities in the world. Millions of people visit the Big Apple every year, and knowing the best places to see and eat will help you experience the city more fully. That's why we drew up this comprehensive guide to visiting New York. We hope this will help you plan your next great adventure! A brief history of New York City (NYC) Before today's New York City, the Lenape people were the original residents of places called Manhattan, Westchester, Northern New Jersey and Western Long Island. Fur trading changed the lifestyle of Lenape well before any permanent European settlers stepped foot in that area. In 1524, the Italian navigator Giovanni da Verrazzano was the first European to enter the port, but the first attempt to settle was in 1624. Most of them headed upstream of modern Albany, but some settlers remained in Manhattan. Fort Amsterdam was built to protect the small colony. With a Dutch settlement, Lenape entered into various land deals, effectively selling them land in Manhattan. Only the third largest American port during the American Revolution, New York gradually achieved trade supremacy and handled more than half the country's trade in the mid-1800s. After 1900, New York was the world's busiest port, a distinction it held until the 1950s. Soaring labor costs shifted business on the New Jersey side of the river after the 1960s, but in the early 21st century, it was the first time that the new Jersey state had been in the business. More than half of the people and goods that never entered the United States came through their port, and this stream of commerce has made it a constant presence in urban life. New York always meant opportunity. As the capital of both its country and country, New York overcame such status to become a global city in commerce and culture, and home to the most famous silhouette on earth. It also became the target of international terrorism - especially the destruction of the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. NYC Fact File Did you know that 1 in every 38 people who live in the United States call New York City home? Here are some more useful facts and figures to prepare you before your trip: Population: 8.62 million (including land and water): 468,484 square kilometers Official English Primary Religions: Christianity and Judaism Time Zone: Eastern Standard Time (EST) Currency: US Dollar (USD) Country Selection Code Adistal: +1 Emergency Numbers: 911 Michelin Stars: 72 Image Credit: Free Photos via Pixabay Getting TO NYC New York City serves three main airports: John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK), Newark Liberty Airport (EWR) and LaGuardia Airport (LGA). Sometimes you don't have a choice about which airport you fly to. FOR EXAMPLE, JFK acts as a hub for both American Airlines and Delta Air Lines, and is jetblue airways' main operating base. If you have a chance, read on for the best airport to fly based on where you're headed to the city. John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK) John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK) is located in Queens, 6.2 mi from Midtown. Southeast of Manhattan. If you fly from outside the United States to New York, you'll probably land at JFK. It's also a good airport to catch up with if your destination is Park Slope, Brooklyn Heights, Fort Greene, or pretty much any other district. The following airlines providing JFK: Aer Lingus, Aeroflot, Aerolíneas Argentinas, Aeromexico, Aeroméxico Connect, Air China, Air Europa, Air France, Air India, Air Italy, Air Serbia, Alaska Airlines, Alitalia, All Nippon Airways, American Airlines, American Eagle, Asiana Airlines, Austrian Airlines, Avianca, Avianca Brazil, Avianca Costa Rica, Avianca El Salvador, Azerbaijan Airlines, British Airways, Brussels Airlines, Caribbean Airlines, Cathay Pacific, Airways, China Airlines, China Eastern Airlines, China Southern Airlines, Copa Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Delta Connection, Egypt Air, El Al, Emirates, Ethad Airways, Eurowings, EVA Air, FinnAir, Fly Jamaica Airways, Hainan Airlines, Hawaiian Airlines, Iberia, Icelandair, Interjet, Japan Airlines, JetBlue Airways, Kenya Airways, KLM, Korea Air, Kuwait Airways, LATAM Brasil, LATAM Chile, LATAM Ecuador, LOT Polish Airlines, Lufthansa, Norwegian Air Shuttles, Philippine Airlines, Ryanair, Qatar Airways, Royal Air Maroc, Royal Jordanian, Saudia, Singapore Airlines, South African Airways, Sun Country Airlines, Swiss International Air Lines, TAME, TAP Air Portugal, Turkish Airlines, Ukraine International Airlines, Uzbekistan Airways, Virgin Atlantic, VivaAerobus, Volaris, Volaris Costa Rica, WestJet, XiamenAir, XL Airways France. Traveling From Airport to City Once you have landed at JFK, you have some options to get to the city. TaxiHind is $52.50 for a flat price (unmetered), plus a potential $4.50 top price for the trip and added a tip. It usually takes 30-60 minutes to reach downtown Manhattan, depending on traffic and road conditions. For more information, call 212-NYC-TAXI or visit the Taxi and Limousine Commission website. AirTrain JFK & Subway: The cost is $7.75 ($5 AirTrain fee plus $2.75 MTA subway fare), but children under 5 are free. This usually takes 50 to 75 minutes, depending on the AirTrain connects the airport metro and the Long Island Rail Road. AirTrain also offers a free airport points shuttle service. For more information, visit the AirTrain website. City Bus On has many routes to take depending on your final destination. For details on route planning and pricing, visit the City Bus website. Shuttle services are available by Bus NYC Airporter, Go Airlink NYC and Super Shuttle. If you book in advance, tickets can be found as low as $17 per person, but the reviews of all companies are less than a star. Depending on the number of people on your side, a taxi may be better used for your time and money. Note: There are also ways to rent a private car service or rent a car, but these are much more expensive options. JFK Airport's website contains tons of great information, as well as travel from the airport. Newark Liberty International Airport (EWR) Newark Liberty International Airport (EWR) is located southwest of New York City. If you are travelling to United, you will arrive at EWR – in fact, over 65% of passengers flying through EWR are American customers. If you have a choice, it's the best airport to fly when you travel to Manhattan. The next airlines service EWR: Aer Lingus, Air Canada, Air Canada Express, Air China, Air India, Alaska Airlines, Allegiant, American Airlines, American Eagle, Austrian Airlines, Avianca El Salvador, British Airways, Cathay Pacific, Delta Air Lines, Delta Connection, El Al, Elite Airways, Emirates, Ethiopian Airlines, Icelandair, JetBlue Airways, La Compagnie, LEVEL, LOT Polish Airlines, Lufthansa, Norwegian Air Shuttles, OpenSkies, Porter Airlines, Primera Air, Scandinavian Airlines, Singapore Airlines, Southwest Airlines, Spirit Airlines, Swiss International Air Lines, TAP Air Portugal, United Airlines, United Express, Vacation Express, Virgin Atlantic, VivaAerobus Traveling Airport City Once you have landed on EWR, you have some options for getting to the city. Taxi has a measured fare of about $50-$75, plus bridge and tunnel tolls and tips. The trip usually takes 45-60 minutes in Midtown Manhattan. During weekday peak hours (6-9am and 4am-7pm) and on weekends (Saturday-Sunday, 12-8pm), there is a $5 surcharge for travel anywhere in New York State except Staten Island. AirTrain Newark Costs vary from destination. AirTrain is connected to the airport via NJ Transit and Amtrak's Newark (or EWR) train station. The trip usually takes 45-90 minutes from Midtown Manhattan, requiring a transition to the AirTrain line on the Amtrak or NJ Transit line (be sure to keep your ticket after it departs from the AirTrain station because it is also used for NJ Transit fare). All offer shuttle bus, airport shuttle, Go Airlink NYC, Olympia Airport Express and Super Shuttle. Prices vary, but are the lowest when booked in advance on your websites. LaGuardia Airport (LGA) LaGuardia Airport (LGA) is located in North Queens and is the third largest airport serving NYC. The LGA does not have a border control system, so this airport has only domestic and international services in pre-customs countries. This is a good airport to get to if your destination is Long Island City, Astoria, Williamsburg or Manhattan's East Side. The following airlines service LGA: Air Canada, Air Canada Express, Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, American Eagle, Delta Air Lines, Delta Connection, Frontier Airlines, JetBlue Airways, Rectrix Shuttle, Southwest Airlines, Spirit Airlines, United Airlines, United Express, WestJet. Traveling To City Once you have landed on the LGA, you have some ways to get to the city. Taxi There isn't a fixed fee, but the ride will cost you about $29-$37 (measured price), plus bridge and tunnel tolls and free. It usually takes 20-25 minutes to reach downtown Manhattan. For more information, visit the Taxi and Limousine Commission website. City Bus Two express buses serving LaGuardia: M60 and Q70. The Q70 goes nonstop Jackson Heights/Roosevelt avenue, a major metro hub in Queens with 5 lanes. The M60 runs in Harlem and connects all major subway lines in Manhattan. For more information, visit the city bus website. Shuttle Bus Like the advice above to JFK, shuttle services are available, but not recommended. The main companies are NYC Airporter, Go Airlink NYC and Super Shuttle. Private Car Service & Rental Many private car services and rental facilities are also available; prices vary. Image Credit: Pexels through Pixabay Getting Around NYC 34 lines and 469 stops, the New York City subway system is one of the largest urban mass transportation systems in the world. Travelling to every stop (without leaving the transit system) would take you almost 24 hours! Of course, iconic yellow taxis are also a popular choice. Here's how to get around the city once you've reached it. By public transport (Metros and buses) If you can't walk to your destination, mass transit is the next best way to get around. The city's rail and bus system is run by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) and known as the MTA New York City Transit. It's cheap, environmentally friendly and a great way to see sights across 5 boroughs - plus it works 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The easiest option is to buy a MetroCard, which you can do at metro stations from either automatic or cab attendants. If you use a paid-per-ride MetroCard, a single subway or bus ride costs $2.75, and you don't have to pay for transfers when you exit turnstiles. Subway lines sometimes change routes or temporarily stop running - especially on weekends and late nights on weekdays - so be sure to check up-to-date MTA service information for mta.info. By Taxi The City's fleet of yellow taxis and green Boro Taxis are licensed and regulated by NYC Taxi & Limousine Commission. Grabbing a cab can be ideal when tired feet, or shoppers weigh you down. Hail taxis with numbers up; That means they're at work. The minimum measured price is $2.50, which increases by 50 cents every 1/5 mile or every minute, depending on how fast you travel. An MTA premium of 50 cents per ride and a 30 percent correction surcharge will be added. The bill will be accompanied by a $1 surcharge from Monday to Friday from 16:00 to 20:00 (excluding holidays) and a 50-cent surcharge will be added at night (20:00 to 18:00). All taxis accept cash, credit, debit and prepaid cards... and don't forget the tip! Carif you plan to drive around the city, use Google Maps to help you navigate New York City's roads. Parking is the biggest concern, so make sure you know where there may be a place for you. You can use an app like SpotHero to compare parking prices and locations. Parking fees can be summed up quickly, so plan accordingly! Image Credit: Youproduction via Shutterstock The top 10 neighborhoods visit NYC New York City made up of 5 districts, but for a visitor, you can likely explore Manhattan and Brooklyn. If you are planning a trip to the city, it can be overwhelming because the city is huge and scattered. In our guide, we mainly focus on the areas you visit as tourists, but there are clearly unlimited opportunities when it comes to great places that stay throughout NYC for your second or third visit: 1. SoHo SoHo is the place to stay in New York City, if you want to be one of the most happened, expensive and artistic neighborhoods. The area is full of high-end boutiques, designer chain stores, and some of the trendiest spots in NYC. There are countless retail options, including Alexander Wang, A.P.C., Rag & Bone, James Ass, Bodsupply, Oliver Peoples, Film Forum and Apple's flagship store. Also check out galleries including the New York Earth Room and the Leslie-Lohman Museum of Gay and Lesbian Art. Where to stay: Ludlow/The Mercer/SoHo Grand Hotel2. Greenwich Village Greenwich Village is the place to stay in New York City if you want to experience one of the most desired and charming neighborhoods. The village is famous for shows like Sex in the City and Friends. Greenwich Village is young and hip with high nightlife, and is considered one of the most delicious foodie neighborhoods in the city! Nearby attractions include Washington Square Park, Bleecker Street Records, the famous Cooper Cellar, NYU and tons of restaurants in the area. Where to stay: Marlon/The Greenwich Hotel Washington Square Hotel3. Chelsea/Gramercy Stay Chelsea if you want to be one of the city's cultural centers known for its art galleries, foodie scene, incredible location and gorgeous brick apartment buildings. Since it is one of the most desired places to live in NYC, staying here increases your chance of bumping into celebrities. If you want to explore other parts of NYC, it's only a 20-minute subway ride almost everywhere else in Manhattan. Where to stay: New York EDITION The Park Hotel Selina Chelsea NYC4. Dumbo Just across the Manhattan and Brooklyn Bridges is in this trendy neighborhood. You can't help but fall in love with this area full of independent boutiques, restaurants, trendy cafes and killer views. Unfortunately, there aren't many options here in hotels that make available options pretty expensive. Nearby attractions include the Brooklyn Bridge, the Manhattan Bridge, the Brooklyn Bridge, Jane's carousel and stunning views of the Manhattan skyline. Where to stay: 1. Hotel Brooklyn Bridge Wythe Hotel Hampton Inn Brooklyn Downtown5. Tribeca Tribeca is a place to stay when you're here for business and don't necessarily want to be in the heart of the Financial District. It's also a great place if you want to be one of the coolest parts of the city while still in a convenient location to get almost anywhere in Manhattan. It's also an easy commute to Brooklyn from here. Nearby attractions include World Trade Center, Oculus, City Hall, Hook & Ladder Company 8 (think Ghostbusters!) and Hudson River Park. Where to stay: Roxy Sheraton Tribeca Hilton Garden Inn in New York/Tribeca6. Upper East Side The Upper East Side is a general traveler who is a cultural and art lover. It is home to Lincoln Center and the Natural History Museum and conveniently next to Central Park. With beautiful brownstones and manicured streets full of adorable cafes and nice shops, this is another lovely neighborhood to choose from in New York City. Where to stay: Mandarin Oriental Arthouse Hotel La Quinta Inn & Suites New York Central Park8. Meatpacking District The Meatpacking District is another great way to stay in New York City if you want access to some of the best shopping and nightlife. Once home to the city's abattoirs and packaging plants, it's now a cool neighborhood full of great restaurants, expensive shopping and bars. Nearby attractions include the party high line, samsung experience, whitney art museum, Chelsea Market, Gansevoort Market and West Village. Where to stay: Gansevoort Meatpacking The Standard, High Line The High Line Hotel9. Financial District Stay here if you're a business traveler. It's also a great place to be in Lower Manhattan, which is easily accessible to Brooklyn, Staten Island, and the rest of the city. Nearby attractions include Wall Street, Charge Bull and Fearless Girl Statues, Statue of Liberty, Battery Park, Staten Island Ferry, World Trade Center, 9/11 Memorial and Chinatown. Where to Beekman The Wagner Hotel Doubletree by Hilton NYC Financial District10. Midtown Midtown is where tourists stay in New York City, which is not necessarily bad! In addition to Times Square, Broadway and Rockefeller Center, Midtown also boasts quick access to Grand Central Terminal, Radio City, St. Patrick's Cathedral and Top of the Rock. Midtown is especially recommended for anyone who comes on a short trip because you're central to easy access to many of the city's tourist hot spots. Where to stay: Park Hyatt The Knickerbocker JW Marriott Essex House Image Credit: Jermaine Ee via Unsplash Top 10 NYC Attractions You don't see everything in one trip, so it's certainly important to prioritize your wish list for a place like New York City. Here are some of our favorite must-see attractions: 1. Walk high line There are some places more pleasant than a sunny afternoon on the high line. NYC's only elevated park is one of Manhattan's most popular destinations, and it's easy to see why. Earlier, the railway, which went into service in the 1980s, the High Line was resurrected as a 1.45-mile green space in 2009, running from Hudson Yards to the northern edge of Chelsea. Today it is a break from the concrete jungle planted with wildflowers and grass. Visit: There is no entrance fee. Highline is open from 7am all year round. Closing times depend on the season. Get There: Mostly based in Chelsea, but check your website for details on how best to access the area. 2. MoMASa does not have to be an art lover to appreciate the Museum of Modern Art; this museum is a museum of pop culture and the 20th century. Some of the most important contemporary artists have several works hanging from the walls, including Picasso, Warhol, Van Gogh, Dalí and Monet. There is also a sculpture garden with works by a cinema, picasso and Rodin, and a state-of-the-art restaurant and bar, which is also worth a stay. Visit: Admission is $25 for adults, free for children 16 and younger. Open From Saturday to Thursday: 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Fridays from 10:30 to 20:00. Get There: 11 W 53rd St., New York, NY 10019 Hot Tip: Head to MoMA Friday Nights for Free Admission! 3. 9/11 Memorial The 9/11 Memorial Honors 11. One World Trade, a gleaming 104-story building, is located in the former location of the Twin Towers. The One World Observatory is next door and offers a 360-degree view of the city. Visit: Open to the public from 7:30 to 9:00 every day, no ticket required. However, you need a ticket to access the accompanying 9/11 museum and can be reserved up to 6 months in advance. 180 Greenwich St., New York, NY 100074. Afternoon tea at platzthe plaza hotel is iconic, and afternoon tea served at Palm Court is considered a key experience in New York. While certainly slandering at $90/person, luxury can't be won. There is a preset menu of teas, sandwiches, cones, sweets with a glass of champagne to wash it all off. Be sure to make reservations in advance, especially if you visit during the holidays. Visit: Go to your website to make reservations and see the current menu option. Get there: 768 5th Ave, New York, NY 100195. In Central Park In pretty much every season, this vast expanse of open green space invites out someone eager to spread out a blanket for a picnic, catch a concert or play, or just walk through different landscapes with a breath-soothing break grind. You can't really get it wrong by choosing a Central Park entrance, from bustling Columbus Circle to a much quieter, tree-lined Central Park West or Fifth Avenue. Aim to see some architectural highlights like Bethesda Terrace, Strawberry Fields, Conservatory Garden and Loeb Boathouse. Visit: No entrance fee. The park informally closes at 1:00. Get There: Visit the Central Park website as the best way to get there. 6. Statue of Liberty/Ellis Island His impressive 305-foot stature, Lady Liberty is one of the most recognized symbols in America. She also looks pretty great for a selfie! Take the ferry to see him up close. If you have a relative who was one of the more than 12 million immigrants who passed through Ellis Island, this is especially meaningful. Ticket prices include tickets to Ellis Island Immigration Museum. Visit: Tickets start at $18.50 for adults and $9 for children, but upgraded tickets are also available. Check the website for exit times. A ferry leaves Battery Park in Manhattan. There is a ferry that departs from New Jersey as well. 7. American Museum of Natural History See Museum is a great activity for the whole family! The Rose Center for Earth and Space is a favorite exhibition, but you should also plan visiting dinosaurs, the Hall of the Universe and the Butterfly Conservancy. There are about 32 million artifacts native across 4 city blocks, 25 buildings and 45 exhibition halls... so don't even try to see everything in 1 day! Visit: While there is no established admission price, the recommended admission price is $22 for adults, $17 for seniors and students for ID and $12.50 for children ages 2 to 12. Open daily from 10:00 to 17:45. There: Central Park West & 79th St, New York, NY 100248. Chinatown Mott and Grand Streets are lined with stands to sell exotic dishes such as live eels, square watermelons and furry rambutans, while Canal Street glitters jewelry stores and gift stores. Remember to come hungry! Here you'll find some of the best restaurants in NYC representing the cuisine of almost every province of mainland China and Hong Kong, as well as Indonesian, Malaysian, Thai and Vietnamese eateries and shops. Wander along the steamy windows hanging from Peking ducks, street carts vending machines with intoxicated coconuts in summer, and countless restaurants serving a variety of delicious Chinese cuisine. From delicious dumplings to dim sum, you can leave the stuffing! Visit: Open all the time without admission fee Get There: Chinatown is an area of Lower Manhattan bordered by the Lower East Side to the east, Little Italy to its north, civic center in the south and Tribeca in its west. 9. Rock Walk to get a bird's eye to look at the city? Skip the Empire State Building and head to the top of the Rock. The view from NYC from top of the Rock is awesome and allows you to get to the Empire State Building with your photos! Rockefeller Plaza is famous for its Today Show taping (often accompanied by free concerts in summer), as well as its huge Christmas tree and skating rink in the colder months. You have a few ways to visit. If you don't want to pay $37 plus taxes on the 70th-floor observatory, bar Rainbow Room's Bar in SixtyFive, where a $20 cocktail can give you similar views just 5 floors below. Plus, that's how you get a drink! Visit: The lift is open from 08:00 to 12:30 (the last ride up is 11:55). Send there: 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY 1011210. Brooklyn Bridge Constructed over a span of 14 years in the late 19th century, this massive suspension bridge was a much-needed alternative to ferrying between Manhattan and Brooklyn. At the time, it was the tallest structure in the Western Hemisphere! Ideally, try to walk from Brooklyn to Manhattan so you're facing the skyline. To avoid the crowds (and get the best pictures), head all the early morning hours and avoid the sunset. Nerds carry engineering trivia and read spots detailing the bridge's fascinating history along the way. Visit: There is no entrance fee. The walk takes about 45 minutes for pictures and reading with stops. Get There: It varies depending on the direction you want to walk, but your best chance is to take the subway. Hot Tip: For more ideas, check out our dedicated post: 15 Best Tours and Activities in New York City. 10 Unique & Quirky Things to Do in NYC This incredible city is so much more than just the Empire State Building or the Statue of Liberty! There are tons of offbeat options to help you explore the city more deeply. So while it's a great list to watch if you've explored all the must-see, it's also great to help you develop a journey that's a little different from everyone else. 1. Gold Vault Want to feel a bit like Scrooge McDuck? Under the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, you'll find the largest concentration of gold in human history. It includes a government-run vault built on the bedrock that includes deposits from central banks around the world. In total, there are about 7,000 tons of gold bars, or 5% of all gold ever extracted! Surprisingly, anyone can tour the vault with the Federal Reserve Bank, but visitors must register 30 days before the tour. Visit: 44 Maiden Ln, New York, NY 10038. Admission is free and tours take place from Monday to Friday at 10:00. Touch the Berlin Wall After the fall of the Berlin Wall, parts of the wall were distributed in five pieces around the world. Across New York. Concrete pieces include art artist Thierry Noir, who began painting on the west side of the Berlin Wall in the 1980s to make it seem less threatening. Make a day of it and try to find them all! Visit: 5 locations across the city are open 24 hours a day. 3. The Menem Museum in New York City has always been a magnet for immigrants looking for a better life. On each of its websites, the Menem Museum, located on the Lower East Side, increases the appreciation of the profound role immigration has played and continues to play in shaping America's evolving national identity. This history museum takes visitors back in time to give them a glimpse of what it was like to be an immigrant in New York in the 19th century. Housed in a five-story brick building, it is estimated that about 7,000 people in over 20 countries lived in this historic site. Visit: 103 Orchard St, New York, NY 10002. Tickets start at $25 for adults. The museum is open from 10:00 to 18:30 Friday-Wednesday and 10:30 p.m. on Thursdays. 4. Dirt Room It's hard to believe the 280,000 pounds of soil hides randomly in a New York room, but that's exactly what you can find in one spacious Soho loft. The art installation, known as the New York Earth Room, was created by Walter De Maria in 1977 ... and the same dirt artist installed 35 years ago remains today. The earth room contains a 22-inch deep layer of dirt spread across the 3,600-square-foot gallery. So if you need a bit of a nature concrete jungle, you know where to go! Visit: 141 Wooster St, New York, NY 10012. Admission is free, open From Wednesday to Sunday from 12:00 to 18:00 (closed from 15:00 to 3:30). 5. Cloisters This quiet place in North Manhattan offers a welcome respite from the hectic pace of NYC. The Cloisters, a branch of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, house the museum's extensive collection of art and architecture in medieval Europe. Same-Day entrance is included here when you buy a ticket to the Met. To save time and skip the big line at the museum, it is recommended to buy your tickets online. Visit: 99 Margaret Corbin Dr., New York, NY 10040. Open daily 10am-3.15pm. Queens Island No matter what kind of elastic adventure you're looking for, you'll find it on Coney Island. It's the perfect dream as a summer escape to hustle and bustle the city. From Nathan's Famous hot-dog eating contest and P.T. Barnum's infamous Feejee Mermaid to an authentic circus sideshow, there are plenty of quirky attractions to find. Visit: Traveling to Coney Island is easy: just take a D, Q, N or F train to Stillwell Avenue 7. Discover abandoned subway stations The New York Subway System is one of the oldest in the world, so many of its former stations are closed or abandoned. The most famous of them all is the City Hall station, which you can visit by joining this tour. You can also take a look at Town Hall station and two other abandoned stops on one train, stopping 6 trains when it changes The tour lasts about 2 hours and costs $35. It meets the north side of Jacob Mould's fountain, on city8. Kayak in the Hudson River Looking for a way to be an active city? Try kayaking on the Hudson River! Manhattan Community Boathouse is a nonprofit organization that offers free kayaks to use in the summer, so this activity is even friendly to your pocketbook (although donations are accepted). Kayaks are offered in front of the front, this man, so show up early to secure your place. Visit: 56th Street Hudson River park. Hours vary from season to season: May 26-October 7: Saturday-Sunday 10am-6pm June 4-August 29: Monday-Wednesday 5:30-7:30p.m. Brooklyn Flea Market It is ranked as one of the top markets in the United States! Brooklyn Flea features over a hundred vendors selling furniture, vintage clothes, antiques, jewelry, and more. If you are looking for the perfect and unique souvenir for your trip, you can find it here! Visit: Open every weekend from April to October, 10am-5pm, 2 locations: Saturdays: 241 37th St., in Industry City Sundays: 80 Pearl St., dumbo at Manhattan Bridgeway Arch10. Ellen's Stardust Diner One of the most popular things to do when coming to NYC is to go to a Broadway show. Fortunately, you can experience Broadway without Broadway fares! Ellen's Stardust Diner is home to a world-famous singing waitstaff and is located in Times Square. Known as a half-house on Broadway, the talent level at this place is crazy, and the turnover rate is high due to the waitress getting discovered in Broadway roles. There's always a line, so be prepared to wait. Visit: 1650 Broadway, New York, NY 10019. Open daily 7:00-00, so you can drop at any time! Image Credit: Free photos via Pixabay Top 10 Iconic Views NYC NYC led the pack for 2017 as the most Instagrammed city in the world. It's clear there's no shortage of iconic attractions, but here are some to fill your Instagram feed with. 1. Located on the roof of the Standard High Line, this restaurant offers some of the most iconic views of NYC. In the afternoon, tea and drinks are served, and in the evenings a small menu and specialties are served with live jazz music. Reservations are recommended. Visit: Standard, High Line, 848 Washington St., New York, NY 100142. In Manhattan, twice a year, the setting sun is perfectly in line with the New York City grid streets, creating sunset-framed concrete and glass skyscrapers that you've certainly seen pop up on your feed. You can still get a big photo in the middle of the sun for a few days on either side of the official Manhattan henge if the crowds are too much to wear. Visit: The best cross-streets are 14th, 34th, 42th and 42th. See local news for the best dates to catch it! 3. Head there at night for some truly Insta-worthy photos, but don't expect to get a place for yourself. This is definitely one of the spots to go for tourists in NYC. Visit: Manhattan, NY 100369. Empire State Building If you actually want pictures of the Empire State Building, then Top of The Rock may be a better bet... but there's definitely something special about seeing the building nearby. The 102-story Art Deco skyscraper in Midtown is a cultural icon and stood as the tallest building in the world for nearly 40 years. Visit: 350 5th Ave, New York, NY 1011810. Hugo The rooftop features beautiful views to the Hudson River, Freedom Tower and Statue of Liberty overlooking the 20th century Hugo Hotel. They have an incredible rooftop bar that needs to make any list of the most Instagrammable places in NYC! Don't leave early - there are some great views at sunset. Visit: 525 Greenwich St., New York, NY 10013 Top 10 Restaurants to try out NYC New York City is one of the best places in the world for foodies. There are 10 restaurants that won't let you down! 1. Joe's Pizza This's your place for an important, cheap, classic New York slice. The original Bleecker Street location has been closed since 2005, but the Carmine Street location continues to serve hot, gooey flawless, foldable pizza until long after local bars nearby. It's quite a simple shop with just a few menu options, but the price (under $3) and the atmosphere can't be won. Visit: 7 Carmine St, New York, NY 10014. Open daily from 10am to 4pm or 5am depending on the day. Get There: Check out your website for more details. There are countless metro houses within walking distance, so your best bet is to connect it to Google from your current destination. 2. Jack's Wife Freda See's restaurant is a Mediterranean-inspired café with delicious cocktails in a couple of lovely NYC neighborhoods (SoHo was original). The most popular are their late and late-night offerings. If you want my ideal, that would be grilled haloumi, peri-peri chicken chopped salad, or cheeseburger fries, ready off fruit crisp. Yum! Visit: The original is at 224 Lafayette St., New York, NY 10012. Open from 08:30:00. Reservations are accepted for groups of 6 or more. For more information about their second location, go to their website. Get There: The nearest station is Spring Street, and can be reached by 4, 6 or 6X train. 3. Momofuku

Noodle BarMomofuku is the original pork bun that spurs a million copycats. By now most people are familiar with David Chang’s culinary empire (or at least his Netflix show). New York City offers many Momofuku-related locations offering cocktails, pastries and fine dining, but we like this opportunity because of the ramen. Chang jump started the NYC ramen craze in 2004, and any variety you choose is one of the best you’ve ever had. Visit: 171 1. Open daily noon-4 or 4.30pm. Reopened from 17:30 to 23:00 (13:00 on weekends). Check their web page menu. The nearest station is at 1.Ave, taking L.4. Katz DelicatessenHer’s no more New York-based than towering hand-carved pastrami rye in this lower Manhattan institution. Katz’s is a vivid portrait of frenetic customers clutching loaves of golden rye, butchers with blood-soaked aprons, and a study of the best pastrami sandwich in town (and perhaps the world). With 4 stars and almost 10,000 reviews on Yelp, it’s a pretty safe bet. Visit: 205 E Houston St, New York, NY 10002. On weekdays, it opens at 8:00 a.m. and closes at about 10:45 a.m. On weekends, they’re open for 24 hours. Get there: F train on 2nd Ave is the nearest station.5. The &#amp;#amp; DaughtersThis 100-year-old shop is still the place to go for the city’s best Jewish fare. You can’t go wrong with a timeless combo cut by expert fish slicers: sesame bagel, schmear and smoked salmon. There’s always a line (welcome to New York), but it’s worth it for this classic taste of the city. Visit: The original store is at 179 E Houston Street, New York, New York, 10002. Open most days from 8am to 6pm. They also have a coffee shop at 27 Orchard Street, New York, New York, 10002. Open Monday to Friday 9:00-22:00 and Saturday and Sunday from 08:00 to 22:00. Get There: It’s based on your preferred so check your website for more details.6. Mercer KitchenThe in-house eatery at the Mercer Hotel showcases local ingredients in the Mediterranean fusion menu, which changes with the seasons. Sample dishes may include sashimi and horseradish pizza, butternut squash soup served in a separate jug, and salmon glazed with kaffiri and lime. The atmosphere is relaxed and lively, and there’s a lovely brunch and fun bar scene to boot. Visit: Located at Mercer Hotel at 99 Prince St., New York, NY 10012. Open daily 7 a.m. -late. The nearest station is Prince St.is n &#amp;#amp; R.7. Butcher’s daughters Don’t let the name fool you - The Butcher’s Daughter is a plant-based, vegetarian restaurant that’s all over Instagram. Think avocado toast, cold-pressed juices, plantain bowls, and filling salads. &#amp;#amp;The staff is very friendly and helpful. Avoid weekends if you can, because the word is definitely out of this place. Visit: Nolita, West Village and Williamsburg all have a location. Classes vary, but all 3 locations are open at 08:00. Get there: Check your website for details according to your desired location.8. Luke’s LobsterBest lobster roll in NYC. The sauce is light, delicious and not too predominant. Luke’s shipments from Maine are delivered every day, so you know it’s always fresh. They opened their first location in the East Village in 2009, but now there are several across the city, in addition to a food truck! Visit: There are 20 locations across the U.S. now, but 13 are in the NYC area. Check their website by address and hours. Get There: Since there are so many locations, Google is your best friend here!9. Per SeThis dining option with 3 Michelin stars is one of the fanciest places in NYC, but getting a table isn’t the only hard part of the stomach. The tasting menu runs over $300/person (excluding drinks), so you and your wallet should be ready! That being said, you will come away fully satisfied with your 3-hour multi-course dinner. This is an event not to be missed, especially if you’re celebrating a special event in the Big Apple.Visit 10 Columbus Cir, New York, NY 10019. Open daily for dinner from 17:30 to 23:30. Open Friday to Sunday for lunch from 12:00 to 13:00. Get There: The nearest station is 59th St-Columbus Circle, accessible by 1, 2, A, B, C, &#amp;#amp; D trains.10. Eleven Madison Park In addition to the fancier end, Eleven Madison Park was rated the world’s best restaurant of 2017, and they serve European food with a New York twist. There is a tasting menu (similar to Per Se), and some foods include honey lavender roasted duck, celery root cooked in a pig’s bladder and honey-glazed duck turnips and huckleberries. Check your website to secure bookings. Visit: 11 Madison Ave, New York, NY 10010. Open daily for dinner at 17:30. Get There: The nearest station is 23. While it shouldn’t scare you away from New York, using common sense should protect you. Emergency contacts in New York If you have an emergency, call 911.If you need to contact the police about failure to respond (including information), call 311.If you have left your property in any form of public transport, you must refer your call to the appropriate institution. Here’s a link that contains most of them. Be safe from CityPickpockets and thieves operating all over the world; be aware of their surroundings. If you’re walking down the street, keep the valuables on the other side. Thieves are known to grab wallets and bags when they pass through cars or motorcycles. Never accept drinks from strangers and always keep yours with you in overcrowded bars. Avoid abandoned areas, especially at night. This includes popular tourist destinations like Central Park.If you feel uncomfortable or lost, approach a police officer or a friendly shop owner to get to your camps or directions. Public transport safety tipsOnly drive marked taxis. If you have doubts about your place of stay or the safety of your neighbourhood, take the cab (especially late at night). Many business districts are devastated at night - remember this when deciding whether to walk or take a taxi. During peak hours, the subway can be very crowded. If you can’t avoid traveling these days, be aware of your bags all the time. If you’re on the subway late at night, stop. Outside of business hours, trains stop here or with a metrocard cab in mind. Drive cars with more people and preferably the conductor of the car (you can see him look out the window of the train when it stops). At your hotel Keep your valuables in a locked room whenever available. The hotels are open to the public and security may not be available in. Always lock your room door. Don’t assume that you’ll be automatically safe once inside the hotel. Emergency warnings As important as emergency prepareding is informed and New York City offers different ways to obtain emergency information. Notify NYC is the city source for information on emergencies. Notify NYC is available in email, text, phone, RSS, Twitter, and in many cases American Sign Language videos.
